By Telegraph to The Times. 721 (new Auster, 523) W. Sixth st. Thir-pears of position. Consultation free, 10 to 12 Cited Press. On the site of the ruined Falls City Hall are mounds of brick, mortar, beams and laths in wild confusion, and men are digging at the base of them hunting for the dead. Many bodies have been taken out. Among the latest was that of C. Lazarus, a small shop-keeper, at 1136 West Market street, next door to Fails City Hall. He was in DON'T DISPOSE OF YOUR CAST-OFF full value for cynlismen's clothing; orders by mall promptly attended to. Be sure to look for sign, "MORKIS," 217 Cammercial at. next door to Fails City Hall. He was in attendance upon a lodge meeting. The body, mangled almost beyond recognition, was taken to the temporary morgue, established in the barber shop across the street. When the corpse was brought in a woman sank almost fainting into a chair, covering her face with her hands, while a small child elung to her skirt wailing in sympathy, and two older ones stood by dazed with sorrow. The family will be in want. This is only one case out of several dozen similar, but the citizens are coming up bravely with subscriptions, and all needs are being promptly met for the present.

Tonight it is believed the estimate of the dead and injured at Falls City Hall have been overmarked, and that the total number of persons in the building when it crushed in was not half as great as first guesses placed it. Mrs. Mary Holsher, who was in attendance at the meeting of Knights and Ladies' of Honor on the top floor, says that instead of 200 up there, there were about seventy-five people in the room. The number in the dancing-schooly on the floor below is also smaller than at flist reported. She says the first intimation they had of what was coming was a blinding flash of lighting and a violent gust of wind, which shook the building. The people became frightened, and were preparing to leave the building, but before they could get their wraps the windows were blown in, the gas went out and a moment later the floor caved under their seet. Mrs. Holsher became unwell reflet. Wherever boules are not should damaged, repairs will be made at mee. The amount of the fund pow in the lands of the treasurer is about thirty-two housand doilars, and this is being added to onight. Offers of aid have been received rom a number of outside cities, but the loard of Trade committee declined the fiers for the present. Mayor Jacobs said, lowwever, that while he was opposed to call-Board of Trade committee declined the offers for the present. Mayor Jacobs said, however, that while he was opposed to caling for outside help, if yountary contributions were offered he would advise their acceptance. He has replied in this spirit to several telegrams from outside points. Money, he says, can be used to good advantage, but as regards offers of food, elothing, medical attention, etc., the Mayor feels that Louisville can house and feed all the wounded and distressed, and bury the dead, so that all offers of this kind are he wounded and distressed, and bury the ead, so that all offers of this kind are respectfully deciled.

Two or three large mercantile firms in the East telegraphed Mayor Jacobs to draw on them for $1000, and a telegram to the same effect came from President Tanner of the Indianapolis Board of Trade. These offers have been accepted. The following dispatch was received from G. W. Fergusson, proprietor of the Spectator, at San Francisco.

son, propried of the Spectator, at Sau Francisco.

"Can send you $1000, if you need it."
Mayor Jacobs has not replied to this telegram, as he did not clearly understand it.

At the Planters' warehouse, the body of Ed Moran, a foundryman in Dennis Long's iron-pipe works, was discovered, wedged between beams and hogsheads of tobacco. The remains were taken to his home, on I wentieth street, near Main, where his wife and four little ones had been kept in anguished suspense.

The fire insurance is only $25,000. The cyclone insurance is only $25,000. The cyclone insurance is only $25,000. The plate glass insurance is $2000.

The Masonic committee has wired the following to Leander Burdick, Grand Master, at Toledo, 0:

"From what we can gather there are about four hundred houses destroyed and three hundred persons injured, of whom 70 per cent. probably will die from their injuries. One hundred and twenty-five have now died. The citizens seem desirous of earing for their own dead and injured,"

The streets in the districts most damaged are still picketed. E sewhere wagons and ail but mere sight-seers are allowed to pass. Hundred's of men are busy trying to save goods. Many of those employed in the wreckage are paid by the Board of Trade committee wherever help is deserved. Temporary roofs are being put on wherever possible. Hundreds of hogsheads of exposed tobacco are being carted to the warehouses.

A good many of the estimates of damage o property have been too high. The ac tual loss, from a financial standpo tual loss, from a financial standpoint, will not be sa great as was supposed at first. The tobacco warehouses are not wrecked to the extent stated. Nearly all those demolished were old buildings and a comparatively small sum will put the new ones in repair again.

The river is strewn with floating débris from the storm from Tenth attreet to the water works, and hundreds of skiffs are plying about collecting splintered wood work. All day vesterday the foam-crested waves rolled eight feet high. Vessels were in great dancer, but through the aleriness of their masters none suffered much. man was holding services. The building, a handsome brick, swayed and rocked, and the west wall began to bulge inwardly under the terrific pressure of the wind. The roof blew off with a loud report. Women screamed, and one lady, Miss Caroline Ruehle, fainted; but Rev. Mr. Gersman remained cool and led his flock safely to the parsonage, where all remained until the danger was over.

Jeffersouville, while not officially seeking assistance, can find many places where aid will be of the utmost importance. Many are rendered homeless and penniless, some are thrown from comfort to poverty; but the people are not discouraged, they have gone to work and this morning tinners and masons were at work on numerous housepose. Damage in houses, furniture, etc., is large. Not less than two hundred houses were wrecked.

LATEST ESTIMATE OF THE DEAD. Up to midnight 94 bodies have been re covered, and it is supposed five or six more may be found in out of the way places. O those injured to a noticeable extent the closest estimate tonight is 125. Of this number at least twenty-five are in a very critical condition. Probably five hundred to one thousand people have very slight bruises or scratches.

GALLATIN (Tenn.), March 29.—[By the Associated Press.! News of the terrible storm of Thursday night is slow to obtain, and it will be tomorrow before the full list of dead and injured is received. Every house and building between Bledsoc and Eulia, in the path of the storm, was blown away and hundreds of people were injured, and are without food or shelter. It is reported that the whole town of It is reported that the whole town of Dixon Springs, in Smith county, 35 miles distant, was swept out of existence by the angry cyclone. Wire communication is distant, was swept out of existence by the angry cyclone, Wire communication is interrupted.

Those injured by the storm near Gallatin will probably recover. The Chesapeake and Nasnville road suffers greatly. In two places about six hundred feet of high trestlework was destroyed, and two 300-ton iron bridges were blown from their pillars and wrecked. The loss to stock and other property in this section is estimated at two millions.

ANOTHER TOWN SWEPT AWAY. Dispatches from Marion, Ky., say a large portion of that town was destroyed and fou portion of that town was destroyed and four lives lost. A family consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Montague and four daughters and the mother of Mrs. Mentague, living in the country eight miles from Marion, were crushed to death by the falling of their dwelling. A family boat moored a few miles above the month of Green River was dashed to pieces against a tree, and a man named Krazler and his wife and sister were drowned. The wounded in Marion will reach 55 and at least a dozen of these will die. One feature of the disaster was that both physicians were fatally logured, leaving the town in a bad way as far as medical assistance was concerned. A relief committee is

PROPLE'S STORE.

SUNDAY, March 30, 1890.

Our opening was a grand success. The thousands of people who vaited our store, the throngs that crowded the sidewalk in front of our windows, the many encomiums of praise and complimentary remarks that were passed, the carnest solicitations on the part of many of the visitors to sell them this or that, all go to prove that our efforts were appreciated and that the expectations of the public were more than fulfilled. We spont many days and nights preparing for the event, but our every endeavor toward making it a grand success, and the thoroughly enjoyable evening spent by our friends within our doors, proves that we more than succeeded.

The object of our grand affair was to show you the new departure we have made in opening our

and to give you a gilmpee at the myriads of beautiful and seasonable spring goods which we have imported direct from headquarters. We have announced in a very fitting manner the fact that our spring season has formally opened, and beginning with tomorrow will inaugurate a series of lively special sales which will far surpass anything ever attempted. No old goods to work off. Everything bright and new, specially imported for this season.

this bright and new, specially imported for this season.

The bright and particular gem in the diadem of our dress goods bargains is the contents of about three cases of beiges in printed designs and plain materials to match, made in imitations of French dress patterns, which we place before you at 10e a yard. We have always sold there goods at 35e a yard. In fact up to a short time ago they could not be sold for less, but advices received from our eastern connections enable us to make the frightful cut in prices, and we lose no time in giving you advantage of it. Over 20 different styles and colorings on sale. Our departments were all teeming with special bargains last evening, and each and every one of them as shown will be on sale tomorrow. Don't fail to call; the first day's sale of our Spring Opening will be a great event. You can't make money any easier than by buying all you can get.

A. HAMBURGER & SONS. A SECOND JOB.

The Misfortunes of Prof. Coener and His Family The bad luck of Prof. F. J. Coenen, for whose benefit a concert was given proverbial. Last Christmas night his orange orchard, in the bed of the Arroyo Seco, was carried away by the flood, and he lost thereby $5000. On the 13th of February last his wife fell in an epi leptic fit, upsetting a lamp and burn-ing the house and contents. Since that time his wife has had several similar attacks.

The man of many misfortunes is now living on the corner of Swain and Daly streets, and last Friday he had another visitation. During the afternoon of that day a 5-year-old son of his was playing in the yard, and in some way got covered with ants. They swarmed all over his little body, completely covan over his fittle body, completely covering him.

The little fellow ran screaming into the house. While the boy's mother was caring for the little sufferer his elder brother, a boy of 12 years, procured a coal-oil can and poured kerosene all over the ant hills in the yard and then set first to them intending to and then set fire to them, intending to destroy the pests. The mother in the mean time had disrobed the younger boy, and while she was engaged in try-ing to remove the ants from his cloth-ing, he went out into the yard to watch his brother destroy the ants. Sud-denly there was a loud explosion, and the flames from the burning oil were scattered all over the poor little fellow, who stood watching the fire. He was clad only in a little jacket, and as a re-sult his breast, arms, lower part of his sult his breast, arms, lower part of his face and his legs were severely burned. His older brother, in trying to extinguish the flames, was also burned. Another brother, only 2½ years old, was also burned in endeavoring to subdue the flames. The children are now under the care of Dr. Koeberle, who fears that the 5-year-old boy will not recover, as he has been frightfully burned.

as he has been frightfully burned.

Prof. Coenen is in poor circumstances, and this last trouble has almost overwhelmed him. The concert recently given for his benefit was not a financial success. Mrs. Coenen was injured some months ago in a streetear accident, and she has suffered with epileptic fits ever since. The fright of seeing her child in flames brought on another attack, and she fell to the ground. Some laborate happened to be

FIVE NEW SCALE BUGS.

They Were Imported from Brazil-Prompt Measures, Thomas Welss, one of the horticul tural inspectors in this city, exhibited in the TIMES office last evening some leaves and branches of palm and trees with five new varieties of scale insects which were recently discovered in a local nursery. The pests were imported with some plants from Brazil eight months ago, and have had time to pretty effectually infest the stock. By order of the Horticultural Commissioners the infested plants and shrubs were destroyed, and the nurshrubs were destroyed, and the nursery has been quarantined to make sure that the extermination is complete. Unfortunately about a dozen young pain trees were sold out of the nursery before the parasites were discovered. It will be well for people who have recently purchased such stock to examine it carefully, and if they find it infested with scale to destroy it at once.

destroy it at once.

Prof. D. W. Coquillett, who examined the new parasites, classifies them as follows: Hemispherical scale (Lacanium hemisphericum), Camellia scale (Fiorinia camellia) and an undeterminad species each of Lacanium scale (Frorina cametiae) and an undetermined species, each of Lacanium, Aspidiotus and Dactylopius.

These are said to be very destructive scales, and it is hoped that the prompt action of the authorities will result in tamping them out.

The danger of importing trees, plants and flowers from foreign countries becomes more and more apparent every day.

SHADOW GRABBERS.

Gathering Materials for Illustration in Kastern Publications.
A reporter learned yesterday from

L. M. Boone, manager of the United States View Company, the purpose of their visit on the Pacific Coast. After a sojourn of 11 months, they now have about three thousand views of different points of interest, embracing birds eye and street scenes of all the cities outh of San Francisco. Now, after a stay of 14 weeks in Los Angeles and vicinity, they are about to close their labors and return to New York city, labors and return to Now York city, where the American Picture Company will publish this interesting collection. The View Company is composed of logentlemen, as follows: L. M. Boone, manager; H. K. Kemble, S. J. Nathans, Ed D. Van Valkenburg, W. W. Phelps, E. Lee Clark, A. S. Trumbo, Jr., E. A. Smith, M. I. Hoffman and S. G. Boone, all of whom are first-class artists.

It is probable that at no distant day some of the fine Los Angeles buildings will be illustrated in some of the leading pictorials of the East. Those who have met them will wish the company success in their future endeavors, and hope their associations will be as pleasant as they have been on this coast.

Military Matters.

The following officers of Company E. Ninth Regiment, San Bernardino passed examination before the board yesterday: Noble A. Richardson, cap ran; George W. Thomas, first lieutenant, and Earl M. Ducoe, second lieutenant. The new militia bill, favorably reported to the House, provides for drilling the National Guards in the several States in the use of heavy ar-tillery, torpedo practice and other means of coast defense.

noon at 2 o clock. The meeting was called to order by Hervey Lindley in the absence of President Jones, and the secretary was asked to read the call.

Dan Freeman was called on and went over the offer made by President mittee.

Manvel of the Santa Fé to furnish transportation and a hall in Chicago. He stated that he has seen a number of people, and finds them all anxious to do all in their power to assist. They are all willing to subscribe funds. Mr. Freeman stated that there were several gentlemen present from San Bernardino county who were anxious to get through as soon as possible so that they could catch the 4 o'clock train home.

Mr. Holt then took the floor, and seemed to be anxious to see a permanent exhibit in Chicago, but he did not want the county lines obliterated. Every county will be anxious to see its own products labeled, and he thought nothing should be done to cover up the county.

E. A. Kimball of San Diego was called for and stated that he and Mr. Manvel have had seven or eight talks on the subject, and Mr. Manvel is strongly opposed to taking up one section to the detriment of another section.

on the subject, and Mr. Manvel is strongly opposed to taking up one section to the detriment of another section. Whenever a man is found booming one section and running down another, both he and his exhibit will be thrown out of the hall. He understood from Mr. Manvel that county lines shall not be drawn; that one county shall not be run down for the benefit of another.

J. D. Brown of Pomona was in favor of giving each county and section a chance. The whole southern country is working in harmony, and he believed that an exhibit could be held in harmony. This country is now working hand in hand, and he believed there would be no trouble.

Mr. Baker of Riverside wanted to know if sectional lines are to be abolished.

Mr. Kimball stated that he did not understand it so. All Mr. Manvel wanted is to see the counties work together for the best interests of the whole of Southern California. He did not wish to see each plate marked, but his idea is to have the exhibits indexed, so that visitors can go to the general manager and get all facts regarding any exhibit. Each county will be represented, and the exhibits will be so arranged that visitors can get what information they want.

Mr. Cleum of San Bernardino stated that his people wished to know that their exhibit would be so arranged that visitors might know where it is from, and the man in charge be able to strain the products, climate, etc.

Mr. Kimball exhibited that the general manager of the exhibit must be able to strain the man in charge be able to strain the products, climate, etc.

E. F. Spence of Los Angeles thought the meeting had taken hold of the wrong end of the question. They insisted on going into details before they had decided to hold an exhibit. He thought it would be time enough to discuss the details after they had learned the sense of the meeting. He then moved that it is the sense of the meeting that a permanent exhibit be held in Chicago. In explanation of his motion he thought committees should be appointed from various sections to counties repre ented in the m ing. He thought the question of de-tails should be left to this committee. Mr. Holt moved that the executive committee consist of three delegates from Los Angeles and two from each of the other counties. The motion was carried.

The secretary was then asked to call the roll by counties, so that the delegates might announce their executive committees.

The committee is composed of F. A. Kimball, George M. Nolan, San Diego; Dr. J. Jarvis and R. F. Cunningham, San Bernardino; (Orange and Ventura were not ready to report); D. Freeman, H. Z. Osborne and Joseph D. Brown, Los Angeles.

Mr. Wells moved that the counties that are not represented in the executive committee select their committees as soon as possible and report to the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. Carried.

On motion of Mr. Freeman, the ex-ecutive committee adjourned to the secretary's office to discuss money secretary's office to discuss money matters.

During the absence of the committee the meeting indulged in various discussions. N. C. Carter thought the people of Southern California should take steps at once to arrange for the World's Fair in Chicago in 1892. He thought it advisable for the executive committee to talk over the advisability of establishing a bureau of information for eastern newspapers in the exhibition halls, so that newspapers all over the country may be furnished with articles on Southern California. Mr. Wells put his ideas in the shape of a motion, which was carried.

A. C. Mouser of San Diego offered a resolution fixing the exhibits in the hall, which was adopted.

Col. H. G. Otis stated that he wished to make a motion in connection with to make a motion in connection with Mr. Wells's motion. He stated that it will be impossible to carry out Mr. Wells's ideas for less than ten thousand dollars, as the eastern papers will charge for publishing matter about Southern California. He moved that proper provision be made for the carrying out of Mr. Wells's motion by instructing the executive committee to provide funds for advertising.

Mr. Wells and four or five other gentlemen jumped to their feet, and thought there would be no trouble to insert matter in the eastern papers free of charge.

Mr. Carter informed the meeting that had a deconsiderable experience in editors unwilling to print, free of cost, advice to their own people to emigrate from the country to California. He stated that it would be just as reasonable to ask the papers of Los Angeles to run this city down and praise some other city.

Col. Otis amended his motion to read that a sufficient sum be set aside by the argentive committee to carry out Mr.

The following resolution was offered, and after discussion was laid upon the table, until after the committee on resolutions had reported:

Recognizing the fact that our public offices, national. Resolved, that we instruct the delegates from this county in the nomination for Lieutenant-Governor that they cast their ballots for and use all righteous means to secure the nomination of James H. Blanch-were taken up singly and adopted unanimously:

The Prohibition party of Los Angeles ceunty in convention assembled, acknowledging Almighty God as the source of all power in government, hereby resolve—
First—That we indorse the declaration of principles of the National Prohibition Convention of 1988 at indianapolis.
Second—We emphatically protest against all State aid for the encouragement of the business of making intoxicating drinks.
Third—That the convention most heartlly approves the recent vote in the lower house of Congress, admitting the Territory of Wyoming into the Union as State with the clause in her Constitution allowing female suffrage, against the fierce opposition of the extreme conservative element on account of such clause.
Fourth—That in placing in the field a State Prohibition ticket, prudence and past experience would dictate that the selection of candidates for Supreme Judges be deferred until the other parties have made their nominations, when the State Prohibition Committee shall be authorized to select candidates known to be favorable to temperance principles.

Fifth—We recommend the distributing of lect candidates known to be favorable to temperance principles.

Fifth—We recommend the distributing of the State into at least two districts by the State convention, which shall be largely under the immediate charge of the Stale Central Committee within those districts.

Sixth—That in the county convention to be held hereafter during this year the central committee is requested to apportion to the Young Men's Prohibition Club of the county a fair representation in such convention.

the Young ater's Proniction Ciuo of the county a fair representation in such convention. Seventh—That we are opposed to all laws and customs upheld by law which favor the rich and oppress the poor, and we cite as such those which give an exorbitant fee to the attorney for foreclosing a mortgage; which allows the Sheriff an extravagant commission for the sale of property, under foreclosure, and demand of the debtor the enormous interest of 24 per cent per annum before he can redeem his property.

Eighth—That in Gen. John Bidwell of Butte county this convention recognizes a noble champion of the Prohibition cause, that his high character, devotion to his convictions and his wide reputation emineutly fit him for the highest place on the State Prohibition ticket, and that we make the like representation in favor of our distinguished fellow-citizen. A. M. Hough, for second place on the ticket.

Ninth—That we favor Government ownership of all railroad and telegraph lines, which should of right belong to the people, and to this end we protest against the proposed extension of time from fifty to seventy-five years for the payment of the mortgages of the Central and Union Pacific railroads, held by the Government, which would serve to the further enrichment and aggrandizement of monopolists and their successors after them, and the additional impoverishment of the inhabitants in general, and we heartly indorse the proposed system of governmental postal telegraph presented by Postmaster-General Wanamaker, and request our Representative in Congress to vote for the same. caker, and request our Representative in congress to vote for the same. A NARROW ESCAPE.

Runaway at the Wolfskill Depot

Rather a serious accident occurred at the Wolfskill depot yesterday afternoon, a few minutes before the 1:40 train pulled out. A back which contained Mrs. G. E. Fairfield was driven up to the main entrance of the depot. The driver left his horses a moment, when they became frightened at something and started toward the icebouse, south of the depot, on the dead run. They passed between the icehouse and the depot, and when they struck the track the hack was capsized, and was dragged about fifty yards before the horses were stopped. Mrs. Fairfield was removed from the wreck and taken to a room in the Arcade Hotel, when Dr. Ainsworth examined her and found that she was but slightly bruised. She had a wonderful slightly bruised. She had a wonderful escape from death. The hack was badly smashed, but the horses escaped injury.

MEETING OF THE CITIZENS COMMITTEE LAST EVENING.

Provide for Ward Meetings to Awaken an Interest in the Subject-A Big Lot of Trees Going

The meeting of the citizens' com mittee of 30, appointed by the Mayor at the meeting of the Park Commission Friday night, to devise ways and means for raising funds to assist the unemployed by furnishing work in the parks, did not pan out very well last night so far as numbers were con cerned. At 8 o'clock only Mayor Haz ard and Drs. Bryant and Hagan and George Fellers with the reporters were present. Twenty minutes later, howver, ex-Mayor W. H. Workm H. Workman, E. E. Bowles and Joseph desmer came in, when the meeting was at once called to order, the Mayor stating the object, and saying that the Park Commission had been offered 60,000 trees by Abbot Kinney, which they were unable to take, owing to lack of funds, and if honey could be raised work could be furnished for worthy unemployed men, and at the same time the trees would be saved to the people. Ex-Mayor Workman then gave his experience and that of Mr. Mesmer in canvassing during the past week. He said that they had been abound soliciting, and found quite a number of merchants who were willing to contribute if they thought it would do any good; that is, if they thought the men already here would get the money, and others would not come from San Francisco aid other places when they heard that there was a movement of

Mr. Fellers stated that it was, but no list of these outsiders was being kept, and that only those who live in Los Angeles and have families to support are being given employment.

Mayor Hazard thought that something should be done at once, as every day that the laboring man stands around idle is a dead loss to the community that could not be replaced. He thought that if the commission could get $1000 the trees could be taken care of.

Mr. Mesmer thought that the committee is too small, and should be in-

The business portion of the city would average fifty dollars in cash to the block and one

Dr. Hagan asked for information about the plan of operation, which Mr. Mesmer explained at some length, saying that the principal object is, of course, to secure work for the unemployed. He had so far collected $197.50, which had been turned over, and had on hand about forty-two dollars more, which he would also hand

A Talk With the Union Pacific's

Montgomery Anderson, traveling auditor for the Union Pacific Railroad, eached this city yesterday and took up his quarters at the Nadeau, where he will remain until today, when he will go north. Mr. Anderson was seen yesterday evening, and, in answer to questions regarding the movements of his road, he said:

"Our people are rather close-mouthed about their future movements, but, on my travels over the entire United States, during the past

At present the great Northwest gets all its canned fruits and green fruits from either San Francisco or the East, at very much greater cost than we can put it down as soon as we reach this city. Fruits are shipped from this city as far as Chicago and New York at present, and then sent back to the Northwest. With our connections we will put a stop to this, and your people will get much better prices than they do at present. This is a glorious countrs, and there is, or will soon be, business enough here for three or four transcontinental lines. We are making things hum up north, and we will do the same thing down here."

A VILE WRETCH

Whom the Stablemen Drove Away With a Pitchfork. A vile crime was attempted at the Agricultural Park stables, Thursday night, but it was luckily frustrated by the opportune appearance of some of the stablemen.

A young boy called "Mac," who has been around the track for a long time, been around the track for a long time, and has borne a good reputation, was attacked in one of the stables by a burly fellow called "Dutch," who has been generally disliked by the stable employés. The assault took place about 10 o'clock at night, and the boy was severely choked by "Dutch," who attempted to commit a vile assault upon him. He managed to attract attention by his outcries, so that two men who were passing released him from his terrible situation.
"Dutch" was afraid to come out of the stable for a time, but finally appeared, when he put a bold face on the matter and said he could whip any man present. One of the men struck

Justice Hail, who convicted the man, could reach it.

Yesterday Maj. H. M. Mitchell made an application for the release of the prisoner under writ of habeas corpus, to Judge McKinley, and the hearing was set for Monday morning.

The papers in the case show that Gelbhaus was convicted of boarding a train at Lancaster and attempting to steal a ride to Los Angeles. The Justice did not try him under the special statute provided for such cases, but made it simply a misdemeanor, without specifying which one of the seventy odd misdemeanors was meant. It so happens that the special statute covering the offense named provides that any one who fraudulently avoids payany one who fraudulently avoids payment of his railroad fare is amenable by the payment of a fine not less than $5 nor more than $20, nothing what

As you are the real exponent for the best interests of Les Angeles, I should like to hear from you in regard to the city issuing bonds for the building of a system of water works. Now that there are many needing assistance, the present time being a good one, why not ask the Council to give the people a chance to build and own their water works? Would it take more than $1,000,000 to build a suitable system?

As we have previously explained, the city will, in four years, come into pos-cents a sack, now they are $7. What session, at cost of improvements, of the show has the producer in such a present system of waterworks. The market? city owns the water, the right to supcompany now operating the works. Now that the great sewer campaign is over and the greater State, county and municipal campaigns still some way off, it is high time for us to direct renewed and increased attention to the development of the resources with which Nature has so bountifully and self-respecting man, whether Rewhich Nature has so bountifully endowed this section. The late lamented boom which, while it lasted, doubled our wealth every thirty days or so-in our mind's eye, Horatio - rendering cultivating, manufacturing and trading-except in town lots-occupations fit only for groveling minds, devoid of ambition, is now a thing of the dim makes the purchase of its watered and distant, though not soon to be forgotten, past; while the succulent tenderfoot, erstwhile so plentiful and tame, has become rare and serve, and which, while prating loudly shy, seldom coming within range of harmony, courtesy and fairness. speculative gunners. 'Tis true we still have our magnificent climate with us, but man cannot live by air alone. We also have our wonderfully fertile soil, but to be of service to us this must be planted and cultivated and cared for. This brings us toward the point we are aiming at-the necessity for increased agricultural production, and, above all, for the furnishing of a reliable market for such products as are raised.

Time was, a few years ago, during the prevalence of the speculative fever, when it was charged-and with much truth-that the actual settler of moderate means had little chance in this and, at the figures quoted him for land, he could raise little save the price, with profit to himself, while, as for renting, no one cared to tie up property in this manner, when their only difficulty about selling lay in making up their minds upon what figure they would accept. Now, all this is entirely changed, although, unfortunately, in the East it is still largely believed to be the true condition of affairs here. Good agricultural land can today be purchased in Los Angeles and adjoining counties at prices that will pay for itself in from two to five years, and frequently on almost any terms of payment that the buyer may choose to ask. Orange land may be purchased in some cases upon payyears; in others by only paying 5 or 10 per cent. down. Furthermore, the industrious man of small means will find no difficulty in renting fertile land at a nominal rate. Quite recently a local itself felt on the deserts of Arizona land-owner rented 200 acres, within a and Southern California, stirring up mile of the city limits, at less than one dollar and a half per acre, and has some still to rent. Richard Gird has rented land for nothing, on his Chino ranch, in San Bernardino county, to men who would plant corn, and thus prepare the land for a subsequent crop

Thus it will be seen that there is at resent no obstacle in the way of the industrious settler who desires to till the fertile soil of Southern California, but right here another difficulty presents itself, which has been conveniently ignored by our editorial horticulturists, who have been urging the frugal husbandman to supply our longwants in the line of vegetal fruit and dairy produce. Oranges, i is true, are almost as good as double eagles just now, and can be sold, on the trees, for cash, but until orange trees mature years elapse, and mean time the settler and his family must live—that is, they desire to. To make a living other crops must be raised. such as potatoes, onions, cabbage, eggs and butter, and right here comes in the question of a market for this stuff. produce, but suppose they cannot sell it for the cost of raising—what then? aspirants, should, as a matter of simple case, as many of our local farmers justice to itself, republish these interwagonloads of potatoes, onions and other produce to Los Angeles, and then had to either take them back home or let them go at a nominal

> What is the remedy for this state of affairs? The remedy is to bring the producer and the consumer together, without the agency of the middleman and this can only be done by the establishment of what may probably be found in every city of this size in the United States, except Los Angeles-a public market-place, or market-house At present there is not a single bona fide commission-house in Los Angeles. They are all speculators, bearing the market as long as there is any local produce on hand, and then bulling it on importations from the East. Moreover, they stand in with one another, so that the poor producer has no show at all. When all the local produce has been sold, prices jump, and not until then. A few months ago onions were offered at 30 cents a sack, now they are $7. What

It is the evident duty of the City Council to establish, without delay, a public market-house, or let one be established by private capital and regulated by the city. To build up this section, we must have producers. In order to secure producers we must furnish them with a market for their products, and to do this, we must give them a chance to reach the consumer without being shaven and shorn. We shall return to this important question, and shall not relinquish it until the Los Ange les farmer is given a fair show.

JOURNALISM AND PUBLIC SEN-TIMENT.

There is undoubtedly a widespread and increasing feeling that journalistic venality and license are rapidly demoralizing some weak people, bringing with them a train of evils upon the country. Public sentiment in some States has become so worked up on this subject as to prohibit the publication and circulation of demoralizing newspapers, but the best way in which public sentiment can exercise itself in this direction is to leave such papers severely alone, treat them with the

It is often the case that such journals, which stoop to the lowest and meanest tricks to keep alive, are excluded from respectable families, but too frequently the head of a family is less careful in this respect than he should be. How, publican, Democrat or Prohibitionist, admit into his family circle a sheet which lives upon blackmail; which forces aspirants for office and candidates to put up blood-money under indirect but wellunderstood threats of punishment should they fail to comply; which stock a condition of the support of regularly-nominated candidates who belong to the party it professes to privately does all in its feeble power to defeat those who refuse to

AMONG THE POLITICIANS

The Democrats concede that the bill of Congressman McComas, to prevent gerrymandering, is a fair one, but they do not like it.

The St. Louis Globe Democrat (Rep.) regards the recent Republican gains in that former Bourbon stronghold, Missouri, as permanent.

The more the frauds in the Sheriff's office in New York are investigated the larger appear to be the pickings and larger appear to be the pickings and stealings of the favored officials of Tammany Hall. Every man connected with the Sheriff's office and Ludlow street had to have his "divy," and the earnings of many of them in this illicit way ran up in the thousands. No city in the country offers such royal opportunities to corrupt politicians as New York, but our local Democratia hose, considering the size politicians as New York, but our local Democratic boss, considering the size and wealth of San Francisco, has no cause to be asnamed of his record, for he has levied on everything in sight and has built up a corrupt political association which is excelled by Tamera, and the property of many only in numbers .- San Franci

Southern politicians used to have the name of being importunate office-seekers, and arrogant and disagreeable in manners, but seldom dishonest. In re-cent years they may have abandoned the plantation overseer in their man-ners, but at the same time their personal honesty seems to have gone down in corresponding ratio. There have been more embezzlements by State of-ficials, by State and county officers, in Kentucky, Tennessee, Missouri, Texas and other Southern States than in any equal number of Northern States, and now the State Treasurer of Maryland joins the procession of dishonesty. There may not be a higher average of honesty among Government officers in the Northern States, but they are bet-ter watched and hedged in by more improved methods of administration. —[Oakland Enquirer.

A Sweet, But Fragile Flower.

Not many doors from mine, as I pass and repass the house, sits frequently upon the porch, a pale, delicate child, of rare beauty, the victim of some accident, disease, or possibly misshaper from her birth. Mirrored in her dark lustrous eyes, and quiet smile, are the rarely acquired virtues of patience, secontempt which they merit, and let renity and resignation. So exceedingly attractive is this beautiful child that, that fills my soul in her behalf. Ah, what a vivid lesson for stalwart, robust ones! What a living reproof of our impatience and discontent! What an example of heroism is this weakly child, who can only look upon her mates, as they frolic in gleeful sport, and whose comfort and enjoyment is, and must ever be, largely at the mercy and kindness of her associates. Never should she come to feel herself a burden, or wonder why she is spared! No, no, sweet child. Your very presence among us, who chafe under far lighter burdens than yours, is a constant monitor to nobler effort. Your little maimed body is only the temporary tabernacle of a soul so far beyond ours in its immortal unfoldment that we might hang our head in very shame. might hang our head in very shame Be happy, little darling, in your exalted mission, and by your occasions presence on your pleasant porch, teach to wayfaring, plodding passers-by the beautiful lesson they so much need. Au revoir, sweet one, we hope to see you often.

NEW ORLEANS, March 29.—[By the Associated Press.] Specials from Greenville, Miss., say: The storm of Thursday drove the waters of the swollen Mississippi over the levees and caused great crevasses where the embankment was heretofore thought secure. There are breaks at Easton's levee, nalf a mile above Mound landing and a nile and a half below Huntington, on Timmile and a half below Huntington, on Timber Lake plantation. The outflow of water from these places will inundate a large section of country before it reaches the Yazoo River again to join the great rivers, leaving desolation and ruin in these parts, submerging the garden spot of the Yazoo delta and entirely suspending railway travel from Leland to Rolling Fork. The water from the Huntington break will join the outpour from the Offuttbreak, which inundates a large section of the country. These waters will swell the volume bearing to the west against Greenville and the portion of the country spreading out toward Williams's Bayou on the east, and no doubt will blend with the waters from the eastern break, making a perfect sea of water from bere to Bayou Phalia, and perhaps overflowing the east bank of that stream. The junction of the waters from these streams will inundate nearly all the plantations in Washington county in its entire length and breadth until Sharkey and Issaquena countres are reached, there connecting with the outpour from Skinwith Break, overflowing ber Lake plantation. The outflow of water reached, there connecting with the pour from Skipwith Break, overfloweverything in its track, until the l

The damage this flood will do to plantations, stock, fences, houses, stores, towns and railways is beyond calculation. Crops will be late, and in many cases it may not be possible to plant at all.

STREET SCENES.

NOTES OF A VERY LIVELY SATURDAY EVENING.

How Rival Bands Attracted the Crowd and How Several Street Operators Joined In-A Reminiscence of the Boom Times.

About 7 o'clock last evening, as the electric lights were shining their brightest, numerous "sales-ladies," looking their prettiest, were seen tripping along merrily to the "grand opening" at the People's Store.

Promptly at the hour of 7 the doors opened, and the attention of the promenading crowd was attracted by summons from the other side of the street:

"Come over on this side; here's the street:

"Come over on this side; here's the place and now's the time, fix your own price and take the goods." Then a colored brass band filed in front, and opened with "Marching Through Georgia." Immediately everybody left the other side of the street, and crowded the cut-rate store. No sooner than the echoes of the band died away than the string band in the People's Store across the way opened up with "Girofle-Girofla," and the crowd immediately crossed over and marched through the store—a veritable Mardi-Gras procession, without the "making up." Then the string band gave a lively march, the ladies looked their sweetest, the clerks the most obliging, and the surging crowd elamoring for bargains reminded one of "boom times." when the streets were literally packed with men, and at every turn was heard: "Best land out of doors; water piped to every lot." As the string band ceases for a rest, the rival brass band across the way opens with doors; water piped to every lot." As the string band accesses for a rest, the rival brass band across the way opens with "Listen to the Mocking Bird," and at that moment a Dr. Cureall, with his portable medicine chest and flickering lamp, shouts:

But about 9 o'clock, the noise, mirth and manic subsidied, there was a calm; the crowd dispersed, and the street, in the crowd dispersed.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

John C. Fremont. Los Angeles, March 26.—[To the Editor of The Times.] All the people of this country are perforce interple of this country are perforce interested in Gen. Fremont; and peculiarly interested in him are, or should be, all the people of California. For 50 years he has been prominent in the Nation, as soldier, explorer, statesman and commander—and during so much of the passing century, that is full of great Americans and mighty events; his name has not been without power and glory.

ISLETA (N.M.), March 26.—[Staff Correspondence of The Times.] Among the many interesting folk-stories and myths of the Pueblos, which I am collecting arduously, are many which show at once that they are of not such antiquity as the rest. When we find a tale about or making men-power and glory.

Business in which Gen. Fremont's name appears before Congress, business concluded in one house and pending in the other, has served to revive intense interest in some quarters, and course it is plain that the story is postingeneral interest in some quarter, in this brave, gentle and accomplished old gentleman. Reference is here made, of course, to the, bill that has passed the lower house of Congress, and, we feel sure, only awaits the convenience of the Senators to pass it through the upper house, authorizing the President to appoint and retire. Gen. Frement as a major-general in the United States army. This tardy piece of legislation is, now that it is about as good as performed, is found to be as welcome to the country at large as it is to the family and immediate friends of the beneficiary of it. We say tardy legistation, and advisedly, for five years ago the Military Committee of the Senate agreed to a bill of the like effect, and ordered it reported. Owing to an accident this was not done. It is not possible that any oversight of the present measure will occur to defeat its very early passage.

There was no excite-ment, because there was no doubt, but a more animated scene is seldom witnessed except on propositions of the very highest national importance. Thanks to the penurious proposal to amend, made by Kilgore of Texas, several of the ablest members were "Quack!" and several several of the ablest members were corner.

A Chinaman was ambling along in the crowd, a drunken man shoved out his cloven foot and down went John. "Chicken tamale, 10 cents apiece, three for a quarter; all vera nicel" shouts an ex-Italian count, as he passes among the throng with his miniature kitchen.

"Dem's made outen sea-gulls, Italy," shouts a tough from Sonoratown, and the presence of a policeman prevents a war of words.

"Gentlemen, I am the unwavering friend of the poor, down-trodden workingman; it is time that we asserted our rights," shouts a professional laboragitator from a dry goods box rostrum on the corner.

"Rata! You don't belong to the workingman, and the half dozen auditors left, and the open-air orator was crushed.

At about this time the crowd on the street was much larger, and the battle of the ablest members were prompted to take part in the discussion, and some extremely eloquent speeches were delivered. Notwithstanding the "hard times" and stagnation in real estate, there have been more substantial improvements made on the Crown Hills during the past six months than in any other portion of the city. But the Philadelphia Press has a note by an eye witness that enables one to form a partial impression of its matter and effect. It is spoken of as most pathetic and eloquent; and said that, as he warmed up to his subject, members crowded about him and repeatedly applauded. We have it straight from one that was present in the galleries that, though Gen. Banks is 74 years old, he exhibited the same fire and oratorical power as he did the day he first entered the House 38 years ago. It was, indeed, an historical because of the Presidency!

pagan stem, with its aboriginal plot and Sunday moral. Here it is, literally as an Indian told it to me:

Once upon a time there were two Indians, who were great friends. They statted in life with equal prospects, married young and settied in the same town. But, though friends, their natures were very different. One was a good man in his heart, and the other was bad. The good man always observed Sunday, but the other worked every day. The good man had better luck than the bad; and the latter became jealous. At last he said: "Friend, tell me why it is that you always make more success than I?"

"Perhaps," answered Good, "because I keep Sunday, but work hard all the other days of the week, while you work every day."

Time went on, and both the friends accumulated considerable wealth in servants, stock and ornaments. The good man let his servants rest on Sunday but the bad made his work every

The good man let his servants rest on Sunday, but the bad made his work every day, and did not even give them time to smoke which was, I agree with my aboriginal informant, a perfect outrage.] Good prospered most, and had more servants, more stock and more ornaments than Bad, who grew more jealous daily. At last, Bad said to good, "Friend, you say that you have good luck, because you keep Sunday, but I'll bet I am right in not keeping it." No." replied Good. "I'll bet I am "No," replied Good, "I'll bet I am right, and that Sunday ought to be

TALKS WITH CITIZENS.

Saving at the Spigot.—"Of course I believe in an economical government, and in absolute retrenchment when it becomes necessary," remarked a heavy taxpayer near the corner of Spring and First streets yesterday, "but there is such a thing as cutting it too fine, as has been the case in several instances by the City Council. For instance, the cutting off of the supply of ice water in the various offices in the City Hall by the City Council. For instance, the cutting off of the supply of ice water in the various offices in the City Hall was a small matter for a city the size of Los Angeles, and the unfavorable comment it causes costs the people a great deal more than would supply the entire city with ice water. Then, too, in the matter of street-sprinkling. There should be more of it, for the inconvenience to visitors driving through dusty streets works against the city, to say nothing of the actual money loss to citizens from injury to goods in stores and clothes on their backs, which would aggregate a round sum in the course of 12 months. There are other kicks, of course, but these will suffice for the present."

Workfor the Unemployed.—"The matter of furnishing work for unemployed laboring men in this city is quite a serious matter," remarked a well-known Spring-street merchant yesterday afternoon, "and should receive more attention than it does. There is a great deal more suffering here than people generally have any idea of, and the condition of some families is really deployment for labor are limited. In fact, the field for common laborers is almost entirely restricted to public work, street grading, etc., and since the retrenchment era set in quite a number of men have been thrown out of work. The situation is made worse from the policy which prevails, to a large extent, among the contractors in this section, of employing men, with the provision that they board in the camps, the usual rate being $1 per day and board. This is virtually prohibitive, so far as men of the cut the camps, the usual rate being $1 per day and board. Yes, I think the present is a good time to make work by public subscriptions, to tide over matters until the sewer work is work' by public subscriptions, to tide over matters until the sewer work is commenced at least."

The Country Justices.—"The ignorance displayed by some of the country justices of the peace in Los Angeles county," remarked an attorney to a Times reporter yesterday, "deserves some recognition at the hands of the proper authorities. It is not just to make a sweeping charge; but there are some of them who not only are ignorated.

It looks as if they exercised the prerogatives of their offices to make up deficiencies when business is dull, and whether legally or illegally, makes no difference. This should be looked aiter."

Trade.—Manager of Hawley, King & Company's farming implement store: "Our trade is improving; better now than at this time last year, whehi shows that there are more farms being cultivated. The area of our trade is also being extended. We ship more farming implements to Arizons, for instance, than usual, and the store of t

No; I do not think there will be a rate war—

the general interest not only of the road but of the people are against it. "Suppose there was a war in freight rates—eastern merchants would come in with immense stocks of goods, undersell our merchants, who have goods enough for the market, and perhaps bring on a panic. These transient dealers, after ruining our local mer-chants, would then return on a rate-war ticket. At the present, at least, a rate war, either passenger or freight, would not be beneficial to this coun-try."

Brick-yard Owner .- "The brick-making season has begun. Two yards have already commenced, and evidently they at least anticipate a prosperous season, and I see no reason why it should not be, for labor is cheap and no doubt a great many people will take advantage of it; and brick are also cheap, selling at $5.50 and $6.50 per thousand. Brick-layers receive from four to five dollars a day—I believe only $4 a day when they do eight hours' work; there was a supply of the brick was a supply of the selection. a day—I believe only $4 a day when they do eight hours' work; there was a surplus of brick made during the boom, which has about been used up, hence the early resumption of manufacture. During the late lamented boom one yard had 39 gangs of men; one gang makes $000 brick, and they turned out 300,000 brick a day. The best brick are made by burning wood or coal; I tried burning oil to my sorrow, but the present outlook is encouraging in the brick-building line."

DR. CHARLES A. WHITE. specialist in article of the past four months the travel to this city has averaged about ten thousand a month—the largest travel we ever had by about 20 per cent.; though our tourist season ends about the list of May. We anticipate a longer season this year, as the spring opens out beautifully and bids fair to linger longer than usual in the lap of summer. We have a large number of visitors from the Southern, Middle and Western States, but the largest per cent. of travel is from the extreme east—the land of snow and of the blizzard. The daily hotel capacity of this city is about five thousand."

Uncle of the Three Brass Balls. "How is business? There is no business! Vell; I mean, not in my line! Ven I make money you've got none! I mean shenerally apeaking; if a man has got money he dou't come to me and my business is dull; but, when nobody has got any business they all bring me, Chief, Clerk Hotel Nadeau .- "During less commissioners and more inspectors."

A Traveler.—"The boom is coming in Ontario, sure. Last week $100.000 worth of property was sold there. One man paid $9500 in cash for a 10-acre orange orchard, and the trees are young, too. All of the Pomona eople speak well of their treatment at the recent citrus fair, and they say they are willing to coperate with Los Angeles at any time for the good of the county."

Cyclones.—"As to cyclones," said a scientific citizen, "I think it is pretty well demonstrated by this time that they are of electrical origin. The trouble comes about by some interference in the readjustment and interchange between the electric charges of the clouds and the earth. A vast charge of positive electricity accumulates overhead, which draws a corresponding vast charge of negative electricity to the surface of the earth beneath, and when at last the barriers are broken down, and the two charges ruph togather.

barriers are broken down, and the two charges rush together, there is a commotion. The vacuum created draws in the atmosphere from all sides and creates the whirlpool movement which sweeps all before it. The late Prof. Tice of St. Louis did more than any other single man to elucidate the true theory of cyclones. I believe it possible that some day a cyclone-rod may be invented and put into use, which may be as effectual a safeguard against cyclones as the lightning-rod is against lightning. barriers are broken down, and the two

ANOTHER HUNDRED.

MORE OF COL MARKHAM'S NEIGHBORS SPEAK.

Strong and Cordial Expressions of Partiality for Him as the Best Possible Man for the Republicans to Nominate for Governor.

The following pointed and perpen dicular utterances of citizens of Pasadena were gathered by a representa tive of THE TIMES within the last day

Maj. George B. Hogin said: "I have much to say in commendation of Col. Markham. California is one of the largest and wealthiest States in the Union, with perhaps greater diversified interests than any other. These demand a Governor who is a clear, headed, broad, great, big man. Such a man I know Col. Markham to be. He has also the generous impulses of a soldier, and I believe he can be nominated and elected."

Ernest Canfield: "I am for Markham always."
A Shives: "Gentlemen, if you nome a strong Milliam Ost: He is my cutors all others."

A. W. Roche: "He's all right."

J. H. Painter: "He is the best man in the State. He can be elected."

H. C. Allen (Democrat): "He is one of the best men in the State—an able, aveallant man. I know of no Repub-A. Shives: "Gentlemen, if you nom-inate Markham, you have a strong

J. S. Shults M.D.: "You may say that I will deposit my first vote in California for Markham."

I. McCollum: "I will say he is just the man I want to vote for."

H. J. Young: "Markham is my choice; I think a great deal of the Colonel; first rate."

Peter Klehn, proprietor Los Angeles House: "My favorite candidate is Col. Markham."

Yesterday M. J. Cheney, who formerly lived on Temple street, but for some months past has been in business at Redondo Heach, came to the police station to get a detective to look up his wife, who, he said, he thought had run off with another man. He was drunk at the time, and no attention was paid to him. Shortly after he left his wife came in to complain about her husband, and was promised protection in

"Certainly I do," said Col. Rusk, "and I have not had a bite since morn-ing." The two then ate together, and their friendship continued until Mower's death.

Mower's death.

The story of how Rusk, as Governor of Wisconsin, quelled the mob in Milwaukee by ordering the troops to fire low and fire to kill is well known, and, as I looked at him in the Ebbitt House last night, the incident of his wrestling match with James A. Garfield came to me and I resolved to settle the question, which I have never seen settled in the newspapers, which of the two was the victor. I asked the General, and he told me that the match took place at Newark, O. He was then 13 years old, and was driving a four-horse stage, while Garfield was aboy leading a mule on the canal. "Rassling" (that is the way Governor Rusk pronounced it). said he, "was very common in those days, and it was the most natural said he, "was very common in those days, and it was the most natural days, and it was the most natural thing in the world for two young fellows like myself and Garfield to try a rassle. The result did not affect our friendship, and all of the boys tried their strength in this way."

"But how did it turn out, Governor?" said I. "Which whipped?"

said I. "Which whipped?"

"That I don't like to say," replied the Secretary of Agriculture, "and it is hardly a fair question to ask."

"Oh, well," I replied, "Garfield was a very strong man, General, and you need not be ashamed of having had an unsuccessful contest with a man of his

"Well." continued the General, laughing, and slightly nettled at the thought that he might be beaten in anything, "I will say that I was never downed in a rassle until I was 22, and this happened when I was 18. I won't say anything about this Garfield rassle more than this—I was a close friend of Garfield's from that time to his death, though I did not meet him again until the opening of the war. When we were in Congress together he used to call me stage-driver, and I generally replied that I was not ashamed of it, but I thanked the Lord that he had given me four horses to manage in-

"No, sir," replied Uncle Jerry, "I am not such a fool. It is your tail that is under the gate and you've got to do the squealing."

If one could have a phonograph worked by perpetual motion in the office of Secretary Rusk, how many good stories he might have. Every Congressman who comes in carries away one or more, and not a few are happy or miserable by their spplication. One tried to chaff the Governor last week, and he stood up before him and said:

and said:

"See here, Gov. Rusk, you don't know me. I want you to understand that I come from the West, and I'm a regular. Jim Dandy of a feller."

"Yes, I suppose you are," said Unqle Jerry, as he arose to his feet in order to tell his story better. "You make me think of the sermon of the minister who was discoursing on the wonders of the Lord's creation, and said he made the large as well as the small ders of the Lord's creation, and said he made the large as well as the small things of the universe. Said the preacher: "When God made the mighty ocean, he made a little rivulet. When he made the snow-capped mountains, he made a hillock. When he made that king of beasts, the elephant, he made a flea, and when he made me," here the Governor drew himself up to his full height and stretched out his arms, "he made a daisy—and I suppose you think you are the daisy." When the President asked Gov. Rusk as to what he had heard as to the Administration in the West, he replied: "Mr. President, I shall have to tell you the truth. In the mean time the galleries had been reopened, and Manderson worked his way into them. He had been tramping around in the wet, and his stockings were saturated. His boots were tight, and his feet felt very sore, and as the night session wore on he took them off and sat in his stocking seet. The air of the Senate was very warm, and the tight boots shrunk. At the adjournment he found to his horror that he could not get his boots on, and he had to walk down to his hotel to n Pennsylvania avenue in his stocking feet, carrying his boots. He thanked fortune, I doubt not, that the accident happened at night, and, as I look at his immaculate costume in the Senate today, I wonder if it would not hurt his self-respect to be caught in a similar fix.

Now and then the Congressmen get rather impatient about the non-appointment of their applicants foreffice, and one came to the Agricultural Department a few days ago as mad as a March hare. Said he: "I have kad this woman's application before you for six weeks, and I think it ought to be good enough to giv-the girl a place. I have put my own name on it, and that ought to get her in if nothing else."

"Well," said Gen. Rusk, as he looked the angry man in the eye, "I will take care of that young lady's influence. I aug going to fix that application like the old lady fixed the accounts of her husband. "That makes no difference," said George, "I know them names are a blanked sight better pay than the ones which you whitewashed out," and, concluded Secretary Rusk, "it is so with your application. Popularity of Rotation in Office. Popularity of Rotation in Office.

In the first place, the principle of rotation in office is firmly fixed in the minds of the American people. It rules the choice of legislators, executive officers and judges; it appears alike in federal, State, local and municipal government. In 1790 64 per cent. of the members of the Connecticut Legislature had sat before; in 1889 only 5 per cent. Heads of State executive departments were made elective, a system of party proscription of all appointive offices was established. Even the judiciary has been made elective in most States. Rotation—rapid rotation—has become the accepted principle of State politics. Where State constitutions set barriers State constitutions have been easily amended.

They hung around the door for a few moments, and at last Sanders said:

"Well, Manderson, I'm going in on that floor and sit down with the Senators."

"But you can't get in," said Manderson. "They won't let you."

"Yes, they will," said Sanders.

"Now see."

"With that he tried the door and was pushed violently back. He then went around to the ladies' reception-room and started to go in. The guard pulled him back and he said: "I would like to know if a Senator of a Confederate State cannot enter this chamber when he has business?"

The guard did not know what to make of it. The Government was unsettled and he did not know but what Sanders might be a Peace Commissioner, and he let him go in. Sanders entered and took his first seat in the Senate. Presently Ben Wade saw him and slipped around and asked: "Sanders, my boy, how did you get in here?"

"Oh, I got in," said Sanders, and

It was autumn in the vineyard,
Where the luscious Muscat grapes
Hung in masses from the branches,
Clu tered in fantastic shapes;
And the pickers, lads and lasses,
Worked with fingers deft and spry,
Harvesting the crop which promised
"Loudon layers" by and by.

I, a bachelor of thirty,
And to youth and beauty blind,
Wandered past the merry workers,
Heeding naught, nor looked behind—
Past them all, and down the readway
Where the spicy pepper trees,
With their long and fern-like branches
Dallied with the ocean breeze,

Past them all? Well, not exactly,
For a little way apart
From the others, worked another—
One whose beauty thrilled my heart.
Fair was also as any princess,
Fair as aught beceath the skies;
And a world of mirth and mischief
Gleamed from out her hazel eyes.

Lithe and graceful was her figure, Health and youth in every line; And she same a sprint! carol As she went from vine to vine. Nothing on her head of auburn, Save a comb of richest red. This hear trie 7 se profest continue.

Is it strange my pace was sisokaned,
That I paused beside a tree,
In unnoticed admiration
Of a creature fair as she?

Such a handsome—Lephorn hen.

Some days ago at the dinner table matrimonial topics were under discussion, and quick-witted Willie was seized with a happy inspiration, and pushing back his high chair from the table, never saying a word as to the idea that had taken full possession of his active little brain, and running to the door disappeared. His parents wondered at his haste, but supposing he would return at once no particular note was taken of it, but the dinner hour passed and the family were about to rise from the table when the door opened and willie, out of breath, his cheeks aglow and his eyes shining, came rushing into the room exclaiming, "O, papa, papa! Then it transpired that the child had been down to Mr. N.—'s who lives several blocks away, running as swiftly as his little feet could carry him, and finding the family at dinner, had begged "Ellen" of her father for his wife. The Chiego Times well says that Gen. John C. Black is "a central and revered figure in Democratic leadership." The General will probably visit California this year during the campaign, and if so our people will want to hear him.

True. Gen. Black has succeeded in getting for himself the highest pension known to the law on the ground of total disability, but this disability was not such as to disable him from drawing the salary of Commissioner of Pensions. No wonder he is revered in the Democratic party.

He took this advice, though his friends and here said he was foolish for doing so, and he held off until that remarkamachine along beside his library desk. and hers said he was foolish for doing so, and he held off until that remarkable senatorial election occurred in which Subsidy Pomeroy was charged with having bribed the Legislature and a big man was needed to jump into his place. Ingalls was then ready and he got the position, which he has held for three terms, and which he can have again if he wishes.

SENATOR INGALLS'S ROMANCE. The romance of Senator Ingalls was one of love at first sight. He was a struggling young lawyer of Kansas and had hung out his shingle in a little town above Atchison. He paid no attention to the women, and the flowers of the frontier wasted their sweetness upon other nostrils than his. One day he was asked to be groomsman at a friend's wedding, and while so acting he saw that one of the bridesmaids was exceedingly fair. He was introduced to her as Miss Anna Cheeseborough, and he learned that she was the daughter of a New York merchant who had come to Atchison to live. In company with her he journeyed for a day with the new bride and groom, and Dan Cupid got in his work to such an extent that the two separated each in love with the other. In galls made arrangements to call, and, after a short couriship, he popped the question, and received an acceptable answer. Miss Cheeseborough had to stand the free of the friends of her lover and her father, but young Ingalls won, and, as Mrs. Ingalls says, her "sins were forgiven, and my father consented to my marrying his political rival."

HOW SENATOR EVARTS COURTED. enator Evarts married the daughter of Gov. Wardner of Vermont. He courted her as a schoolboy, and he became engaged at 16 among the hills of her father's farm. He did not marry until he had a good start in life and he was 25 before his wedding took place. Senator Edmunds married the niece of the Hon. George P. Marsh, who was one of our ministers to Italy. Senator Dawes met his wife while he was teaching school. She was one of in spupils and he married her after her graduation. Senator Teller married a girl who lived in the same town in which he was brought up in New York, and Frank Hiscosk got the money which enabled him to engage in a political career by his marriage with pretty Cornelis King, who now presides over his Washington establishment. Senator Payne is largely indebted to his wife for his millions. She was the daughter of an old farmer who had a large amount of land near Cleveland, O. Payne was a poor lawyer when he married her. The city grew and Mrs. Payne's father's farm included the lands which now make up the most fashionable part of Euclid avenue.

THE LOVES OF JOHN SHERMAN AND DON CAMERON

Senator Sherman was married when he was 25. His wife has lived with him during his 35 years' residence at Washington, and she is one of the finest looking women at the Capital. Tall, straight and brown-haired, she has rosy cheeks and bright, brown eyes and a graceful and stately form. She was the daughter of Judge Stewart of Mansfield, O., and the Hon. Thomas Bartley, who afterward became the Governor of the State, was one of John Sherman's rivals. There is a story told at Mansfield of how the two went to see Miss Stewart at the same time while she was attending a Pennsylvania female seminary and how they narrowly escaped meeting. Sherman, however, won the maiden, and Bartley, I think, married Senator Sherhim during his 35 years' residence at ley, I think, married Senator Sher-man's sister.

otos to make him Attorney-General of North Carolina.

Speaking of Sherman calls attention to the fact that Don Cameron married John Sherman's neice. Mrs. Cameron is one of the prettiest and most accomplished women of Washington. She must be about 33 years of age, but she does not look over 25. She is a great favorite in diplomatic circles, and likes to go into society as much as her husband likes to stay out of it. She was to go into society as much as her husband likes to stay out of it. She was the daughter of Judge Sherman of Cleveland. Don Cameron met her here while she wasivisiting her Uncle John. He proposed, and she accepted, notwithstanding the Senator has some daughters nearly as old as she is. The wedding took place at Cleveland, O., and was one of the most brilliant ever held in that city of millionalres.

Senator Bruce, who has just been appointed Becorder of Deeds of the District of Columbia, was married at about the same time at Cleveland to the pretty octoroon who presides over his Washington household. Bruce got the best part of his education at Oberlin, O., and I think Mrs. Bruce was attending school there at the same time. After she finished her education, she came to Cleveland to teach school, and she was acting as a school teacher almost up to the time of her marriage. A MICHIGAN ROMANCE. Another Michigan romance is that of ex-Senator Conger. Conger was also a young Ohio lawyer, and he was practicing at the town of Ravenna, not far from Akron, when he fell in love with Miss Stella Humphreys, the daughter of the Judge Humphreys, the daughter of the Judge Humphreys who presided over the court at that time. He was poor and Miss Humphreys was rich, and the success of his suit was by no means assured. One of his first cases was a breach of promise suit, and he was trying it before Judge Humphreys. He made a stirring, spreadengle speech, denouncing the claims of the girl to the hand of his client and ridiculing the maiden in no moderate terms. When he had finished his speech the opposing lawyer arose and turned his shafts of ridicule upon Mr. Conger. He referred to his unsuccessful suit with Miss Stella Humphreys, and made so much fun of him that the future Senator laid his arm down on the table and bent his head upon it and cried. He left the courtroom without completing the trial and went off to Michigan to make his fortune. In time, however, his heart healed over and he married a Michigan girl, and had a family by her. He was elected to Congress and finally came to the Senate. His wife died, and he was here as a bachelor Senator. Miss Stella Humphreys also married and her husband moved out to the west, made something of a fortune, and died. The widow, to drown her grief, took a trip through the East, and, among other places, visited Washa young Ohio lawyer, and he was practicing at the town of Ravenna, not far

The two were engaged, but they had a lovers' quarrel and parted in anger. Another suitor for the lady's hand came to the front, and he married her before Lamar was able to make up the quarrel. Lamar was married and his wife died, and he then married his first love, who had become a widow, and who was wealthy through the fortune left her by her first husband.

a noted belle of the Roanoke Valley.
The Senator was then a Whig and a

It was the same with the match of Senator Hawley, whose pretty English wife is now one of the leading ladies of Washington society. Mrs. Hawley was the daughter of a prosperous English squire. She had the theory that every woman should have a career, and at an early age she turned herattention to nursing. She was chosen directress of the nurses to go with Gen. Wolseley's army in the Zulu war, and her success was so great that she was awarded the Victoria order of the Red Cross. She came to America to reform the management of the Philadelphia Hospital, and it was during one of her trips across the ocean that Senator Hawley mether. HOW GROVER CLEVELAND PROPOSED FIVE TIMES. I am able to give some inside information about ex-President Cleveland's romance. At the time of the wedding the mouths of the President land's romance. At the time of the wedding the mouths of the President and his wife were as tight as that of a clam concerning their love affair. None of their friends knew much about their courtship, and they went on the principle of the great German proverb, that "speech is sliver, but silence is golden." The wedding is still gossiped about here, and the women pronounce it a love match, while the men invariably take the ground that the White House had a good deal to do with Mrs. Cleveland's acceptance. It seems that the men are somewhat in the right, and a lady who lately returned from a wedding trip to the Continent gives one of my friends a conversation which she had with Mrs. Cleveland not long ago. The story as it comes to me is quite spicy, and I do not vouch that the report of the talk is verbatim. I give it as I hear it. This lady said:

"I met Mrs. Cleveland shortly after I landed in New York, and one of the first questions she asked me was to pray tell her how long I was engaged before I was married. I answered her, and told her the story of our courtship. She listened with interest, and when I was through I concluded that I would learn something from her in return. I asked:

"Mrs. Cleveland, I have seen a

I have told you my story, and now I want you to tell me yours. How long were you engaged to the President before you were married?"

Mrs. Cleveland laughed and blushed and said:

and said:

"Oh, there are the most ridiculous stories told about us, but, honestly, they are hardly as funny as it really was. Uncle Grover proposed to me five times before I accepted him. First, when I was 14, and I just laughed at the idea, for he seemed so much older. Then again two years later when I went to college, and the third time when he was elected Governor of New York. I was by no means ready to marry any one, and he let things go for a year, or until he was nominated for the Presidency. Then he asked me again, and I again refused. At last he was elected, and I promised to marry him in a year. Of course, I always liked him better than any one also, and I always meant to marry him some day, but I'll own the White House had something to do with hurrying it up."

STAGE AMATEURS.

SOCIETY SLAVES WHO SING AND RECITE,

Clever" Method of Living by the Labor of Others-The " ager of Amateurs" and His Fa vorite "Racket"

That book of characters, "The Slaves of Paris," admirably illustrates the nner in which "clever" people live in that city of slavery and luxury. The woman of fashion is the slave of the milliner and the dressmaker: the spendthrift son of the millionaire is the slave of the usurer; and the weak man of faults is the slave of the black mailer. The slave of fashion exceeds the limits of her "pin-money" allow-ance, gets in debt to the milliner, and is her slave—often resorting to dishon-orable means to liquidate the debt in order to prevent exposure by the bill being sent to the husband; the young order to prevent exposure by the bill being sent to the husband; the young spendthrift resorts to forgery or other crimes for similar reasons; and the man of faults submits to continual blackmail by people worse than himself. It also illustrates another class of people who live upon the labor of others simply by "clever" management: Self-styled leaders of fashion become wealthy from fees charged for introducing others into the "swim;" and the vanity of the credulous is played upon in various other ways for more than it is worth. Between those who live upon the fears of people, and those who live upon their credulity, there is very little difference—excepting that the law takes cognizance of the one and not of the other. Those who wish to shine in society or in public life are shining marks for these shrewt people of clever ideas. Perhare there is not a more vardant fellow.

quired. This, under the pretext of giving the crazy amateurs the requisite ameunt of stage coaching. But, as these society amateurs only serve as "supers," they get very little stage experience. Theatrical managers prefer them for two reasons—their services cost nothing and they draw better than the poor-paid "supers." These society amateurs would hotly spurn the offer to go upon the stage as "supers," yet they do that very thing under the disguise of "stage training." And, worse still, their Delsartean professor receives pay for their services as "supers." For instance, a theatrical manager is putting on "a society drama." He will send word to the teachers of these amateurs that a stated number are wanted to "fill in." that they must be "good dressers," etc. The teacher receives on an avorage $1 per night for each of these amateurs furnished, they receive nothing, and do not even get their names in the newspapers, and the poor shop-girl and underpaid clerk are thus deprived of this extra work. This system of living upon the work of willing slaves is exemplified in a smaller scale in the lesser cities. The amateur stage craze exists everywhere. It is as pronounced in Los Angeles, proportionately, as it is in Gotham; and the slaves are just as easily "worked." For instance, a man who wishes to live without laboring, will organize a "society," no matter what it is or for what purpose, so long as it is a society or association. He will decide upon an "entertainment," consisting of recitations, readings, musical selections, tableaux, trapeze performances and a general combination of any and everything. The young society lady is ready and willing to sing at any time, in order to get her name in the newspapers, and the lady who has the stage-fever is ready to "elocute" on the slightest provocation, and the society swell, who poses as a "masher" among the ladies, would even pay for the privilege of appearing who has the stage-rever is ready to "elocute" on the slightest provocation, and the society swell, who poses as a shrewd people of clever ideas. Perhaps there is not a more verdant field for this class of work than that of "as-piring talent." In New York city the Desartean system of elocution is the latest craze, and it develops another feature of slave life in a great city. The pupils of this Delsartean school are mainly "society" people of wealth or in easy financial circumstances, and in addition to the enormous tuition fee, are required to play at one of the designated theaters whenever retwo men, who make a comfortable living out of these amateur entertainments, and out of the labor of these amateurs, who pay their own expenses-costumes, car fare, carriage hire and even purchase their bouquets which they wish their friends to toss up to them on the stage. Such is the crace for notoriety, and so numerous are the slaves to amateur theatricals that others live in ease upon their toil and incredulity. incredulity.

Have Improved Arms Made War Impossible?

[Gen. Henry L. Abbot in the March Forum! What will be the effect in the near future of these radical changes in weapons and methods of warfare? It is the claim of inventors that they are rapidly making war impossible, by increasing the power of destruction beyond the limits of human endurance. But do the facts sustain such a claim? It must not be forgotten that complexity has taken the place of simplicity everywhere, and that consequently a degree of skill greater than heretofore is demanded to make effective use of the new devices. If it were possible to overcome the "total depravity of inanimate things," and to divest the soldier himself of human instincts and human fallibility, and transform him while the battle is raging into a passionless automaton, the wonderful powers of these new machines might perhaps be utilized to the full; but this is passing the limit of the possible. As the difficulty of handling his weapons increares, the effects of nervousness and stupidity will increase, and in a much higher ratio. Whatever may be the effect of modern progress in weapons upon the struggle of two armies equally provided with the new types, there can be no doubt as to the result when one of the combatants possesses them and the other is equipped nearly in the manner in vogue during our civil war. Can we, if some luckless Samoa should bring a European army upon our shores, afford to be handicapped as were the aborigines when they opposed their bows and arrows to the old "Brown Bess" of our forefathers? And would not that be our position today?

he was lost. There was no doubt of that, whatever. Up and down the street she turned her eyes, but not a familiar thing could she see. The houses looked strange, for they all stood close to the payment, with no pretty gardens in front, such as she had been accustomed to see, and there was not a rose bush anywhere, nor a bit of climbing vine, only the long rows of high brick houses, with their many windows, all of which looked alike.

Oh yes, there was the church, that

Oh yes, there was the church, that was different, with its beautiful ivy-covered tower and its long stained windows, and the great open belfry where the bell was hung, and out of whose arches the swallows came and went, their dark wings looking like a speck between her and the sky.

Daisy Dane looked at them with longing eyes, and wished that she had wings too, for her poor little feet were tired with wandering, and her head ached from fasting, for not a mouthful had she had to eatsince morning, when she had slipped away, when mamma was busy, and the servant had left the hall door open, and she had passed out without notice "just for a little bit of a walk."

without notice "just for a little bit of a walk."
She had run straight down the long and beautiful street on which they lived, stopping now and then to peep in at the beautiful gardens, or to pat some pet dog on his head, and once she had followed a pretty maltese kitten around a corner, and in that way had lost the street where her papa lived, and here she was with the sun not so very far above the horizon, with not the slightest shove the horizon, with not the slightest idea where she was or how to find her way home.

And worse than that, Daisy began to And worse than that, Daisy began to feel that she had been very naughty, for she well knew that her mamma would never have permitted her to come out unattended, for Daisy was but 8 years old, not old enough by any means to find her way about in a big come out unattended, for Daisy was but 8 years old, not old enough by any means to find her way about in a big city like Chicago.

Her home was on Michigan avenue, and it was a beautiful house in which she lived, looking for all the world like some of the fine old castles of which she had seen pictures in one of the books in her father's library. And the street was broad, and away to one side were the sparkling waters of the lake, which always delighted her.

But she had strayed upon one of the side streets, and then down into the business quarter of the city, where there was the rush and roar of teams and the noise sand fright. Finally she turned off upon another street, which led her at length into the dirtiest and poorest portion of the city. O, what nows of old rickety, tumble-down houses. What dirty feet she saw at the vine of the city of the city of the city of the city of the wretched little hoodlums who live in that locality spied her and ren out to meet her. "O, here comes a fine gell," said one, "a regular swell un." "Mebbe she's a princess," remarked a diminutive ragged urchin, who had nothing on but a torn jacket and a pair of ragged trousers, and down the ragged troop rushed upon her with loud yells and boisterous laughter.

Poor Daisy saw them coming and would have run away, but she did not know where to look for safety. In the doorway just opposite the place where she was she saw standing a red-faced, drunken Irish woman, and in the next hallway two women were fighting. These were dreadful sights to the point the crowd of young hoodlums had reached her, and gathered in a circle about about her, and they were calling her names and throwing mud on her pretty names and throwing mud on her pretty white dress.

Daisy was crying, but at this they only laughed, and began to tease her and talk to her in the vilest language of the slums. One of them seized the beautiful gold ring which she wore upon her finger, in which was set a lovely ruby. Another caught sight of her pretty coral necklace, and tugged away at it until it broke, and away he van with the treasure.

lovely ruby. Another caught sight of her pretty coral necklace, and tugged away at it until it broke, and away he ran with the treasure.

At this poor Daisy began to cry harder than ever, but very softly, for she was afraid to make any outery. The biggest and tallest boy in the crowd, a villainous looking fellow, with blue eyes, and dreadfully freckled face, and a strong Irish brogue, had just snatched her hat from her head and put it upon his own, saying:

"Och! and indade an' its a swate lady I bees wid me fine feathers, and its proud the loikes uv ye will be uv sich gintry, an' ef it be no throuble, at all, at all, fur yees to go wid me, we'll jist take a walk, me darlint."

With that he seized poor Daisy by the hand and drew her arm through his own, covered by its dirty and ragged sleeve, at which Daisy cried out: "O, let me be. You are a naughty, wicked boy, and I never will go with you, never." She tried to draw herself away from him, but he seized her by the arm and held so tightly that she cried out with pain.

As she did so something came

As she did so something came bounding down the street with swift feet, and in a moment a great matiff had Daisy's tormenter by the throat, at which all the other boys set off on a wift run.

The huge animal growled, and then releasing his hold of the struggling boy for a second, he set his sharp teeth into his shoulder and held him fast.

"O Carlo, Carlo! dear, good Carlo!"
cried Daisy with a voice full of delight as she recognized her own dog. She was no longer afraid, and patting him gently on the head, she said:

"Let him up, Carlo, that's a good dog."

Carlo had been taught to mind, and at the command of his little mistress he let go his hold, and the big lrish boy got up, glad to escape from the sharp hold of Carlo.

"Now, you naughty boy, go home," said Daily, "Carlo will bite you if you touch me."

The boy was a big coward, as all bad boys are apt to be, and he was only too glad to make his escape, and hardly had he gone before Daisy's father, who had been out all the afternoon in anxious search of her, following wherever the dog led, came hurrying down the street, and soon he had her in his arms, thankful indeed that his long search was so happily ended.

"I should have been killed, paps, I know I should, by those dreadful bad boys, if Carlo had not found me when he did," said Daisy, after she had told him how they had stolen her ring and necklace, and were trying to drag her away to some place, she knew not where. "O, papa, I never, never will run away again."

Her father kissed the tear-stained cheeks of his little daughter, and taking her in his arms he halled the first passing hack, and soon they were on their way to the home where the poor mother was so anxiously waiting for some news of her lost darling.

At this time of the year the trip is a beautiful one, for poppies and other California wild flowers are in abund-ance, and the weather is delightfully pleasant for rambling and outdoor pleasant for rambling and outdoor sports.

A beautiful stream of water, cooled by the melting snow on the mountains, flows through Devil's Gate, and so the only means of crossing it is by means of stepping stones, much filarity was caused by several of the fair ones accidentally alipping in.

A tempting lunch was served on the sand, near the banks of the torrent. This pastoral banquet being over the pleasure-seekers set out in quest of ferns and poppies, returning in time to take the 5 o'clock train for Los Angeles. Those present were the Misses Clara Bennett, Maire Longstreet, Pauline Lewis, Geneveive Reardon, Bertha Worm, Lou Whipple, Nellie Reardon, Lilian Zech, Mayme Burton; Messrs. Will P. Jeffries, Arthur W. P. Kinney, Will Booth, Leo C. Wells and others. THE OUTING CLUB.

The last reception of the Outing Club was held at the pretty home of Miss Chanslor, No. 1100 West Tenth street, last Thursday evening. An enthusiastic business meeting was held during the fore part of the evening and the transfer and his report which showed that the resources ex-ceeded the liabilities. The present executive committee was continued in Business over, the club adjourned to listen to several musical numbers rendered by several of the ladies and gentlemen, which were greatly enjoyed, especially a whistling solo by the secretary. After this an elegant repast was served, which did credit to the hostess, who is also a member of the "C" Cooking Club. The supper over, dancing was participated in until a late hour, when the members departed, after thanking their fair entertainer for the enjoyable time she had given them.

The Outing Club tennis court was a seene of activity yesterday afternoon, and several very interesting doubles and singles were played. Business over, the club adjourned to

S. Peckham, Milwaukee, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. George B. Haynes, Minneapolis, Minn.; Joseph Collett, Terre Haute, Ind.; George W. McNeil, Hartford, Ct. The weather for the past week has been simply delightful, giving all a chance to indulge in the many out-of-door sports which this charming place affords its guests.

Nearly every day one can see large companies of ladies returning to the hotel loaded with wild flowers, presenting a very gay appearance. Parts of the beach and the country surrounding hotel loaded with wild flowers, presenting a very gay appearance. Parts of the beach and the country surrounding San Diego and Coronado are rich in beauty, being covered with wild flowers of all varieties. There have been two delightful excursions this past week to Tia Juana and Old Mexico. All enjoyed visiting the custom-house, curiosity stores and other places of interest. Returning, they visited the orange and lemon groves of Sweetwater Valley and the celebrated Sweetwater dam.

orange and lemon groves of Sweetwater Valley and the celebrated Sweetwater dam.

One of the best entertainments of the kind yet given in the Hotel del Coronado was the concert last Monday evening by the Jinglers. This company possesses great versatility of talent, and that the audience was well pleased was evinced by the laughter, applause and encores with which the singing was greeted. In one instance (on the appearance of the male quartette) they were recalled four times before the delighted listeners were willing to relinquish them. The imitations of the San Diego brass band, the Chinese band and Barnum's caliope brought down the house, while the quaint negro melodies occupy a place of their own, distinct from all the other music, and of these the public never tires. The voices were not only good, but had received much culture, as was evinced in "The Huntsman's Horn," a soprano solo, and several other solos and duets by other voices. The piano selections also showed a knowledge not gained without long and patient study. Each member excels in his own particular way.

One of the pleasantest of society's events for some weeks past was the institution german given by the young ladies of the hotel on Friday night last. The grand ballroom never looked more beautiful. The committees had done their work well, and the arrangements were exquisite. Extra electric lights had been put in, flags of all nations were festooned from the ceiling, and follored pendants of bunting were so placed as to give a mellow tinge to the lights. Flowers in profusion were scattered about the room. The stage was a complete bank of cut flowers, while about the room were grouped potted plants and trees, adding greatly to the beauty of the scene. The ladies receiving were Mesdames Huntington, and the excellence of all was added to by the exquisite costumes and surpassing beauty of the ladies taking part. Twenty-eight couples took part in the dance, which was led by Lieut. C. W. Bartlett of the United States steamer Ranger.

Among the party were the following:

At Santa Monica

The hard-times social given at Good Templars' Hall Monday night by the Woman's Relief Corps, was a very enjoyable affair, and was a success both socially and financially. The proceeds are to be devoted to the widows and orphans of soldier's. Coffee and doughnuts were served and the evening was spent in singing, recitations and having a general good time. It is hoped that the ladies will soon give applier of these pleasant socials.

was well filled last Wednesday night at the concert given by Mr. Piutti and Miss Nora Large. The programme was of a character to attract the really musical people of the city, and they were consequently largely represented there. To select numbers for especial mention is always an awkward task, but in this case the playing of the groups three and five, of the groups three and five, including Schubert, Schumann, Bach, Beethoven and Chopin, were the most delightful of the plano numbers, and the songs, "Spring Night" and "Thou Art Like Unto a Flower," the most appreciated.

The members practice their assigned parts at home, and meet then for rehearsal for perfect work. No such class is in existence in Los Angeles, though such work is both interesting and profitable.

The special train carried a large number of Angelefios to Pasadena on Thursday night to attend the fourth Dunster organ concert, which proved an unusual affair and went off admirably.

Herr Blasius, who organized a string quartette some months ago, has kept them steadily at work, and will soon give a concert at Illisois Hall, at which will be given a composition by a local musician. A good string quartette is always welcome, for some of the sweetest and finest music has been written for stringed instruments only.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

A Voice from Pico Heights. Los Angeles, March 29.—|To the Editor of THE TIMES. | The residents of Pico Heights are very anxious to know what action the supervisors propose to take concerning the Ninthstreet extension. They told us if we would raise $150, and turn it over to them, that they would go right to work and secure the street for us.

them, that they would go right to work and secure the street for us.

The money was turned over to them nearly a year ago, and there are no signs of a street yet. They purchased half the width of the street (30 feet) from Mrs. Holdst next her line with Ballerino; then they tried to buy the other 30 feet from said Ballerino, which he refused to sell. Now, Mrs. Holdst offers to sell another 30 feet to them, which would make the required width; and why the supervisors do not accept her offer is what the people who paid the $150 wish to know.

Of the various suburbs of Los Angeles Pico Heights is the cleanest, dryest and healthiest, and as a resident suburb there is no pleasanter about the city. We are between the city and the ocean, and get the sea breeze before it is tanted with the filth and slops of the city. We have a beautiful mountain view, and the ocean can be seen from numerous points. It is almost as cool here in summer as on the beach, and in winter it is always dry, as our streets are mostly and.

summer as on the beach, and in winter it is always dry, as our streets are mostly sandy.

Improvements here are greatly retarded by the absence of a street-car line, the result of the bad management of the electric road. We have though, the foundation for a thriving and populous suburb already laid.

We have two general stores; a measurantet, a nursary, and a drug store; also a neat and handsome public school building, a private select school, the distance of the standard o from the west, besides two churches Methodist and Confregational.

We hope the supervisors will have some regard for "our side," and take some immediate action toward opening Ninth street, which will give us a route fully a mile shorter than by Pico street to the heart of the city.

Los Angeles, March 29.—[To the Editor of The Times.] Some months ago THE TIMES had occasion to call attention to one Prof. E. D. Keck. who, becoming involved in debt, unceremoniously left for the East, and, ceremoniously left for the East, and, as so many have been guilty of the same, with the intention of defrauding their creditors, The Times handled him unsparingly, as all such cases deserve. But it proves that Prof. Keck left with purer motives. He wrote to a friend immediately after leaving, who had sent the papers to him. "They have me down, but you will soon see that my intentions are and were right." And now his agent bere says that two months ago he settled his last account.

This statement is due to the many that two months ago he settled his last account.

This statement is due to the many friends he had, and also to himself, for the manly manner in which he has struggled to erase the cloud that rested on his good name. Parties who reside here, and knew him in his college days, have only words of praise, knowing him as a gentleman and a Christian.
